When I'm not writing, training writers, or curating content to serve God's church in the UK, I love saying yes to speaking events anywhere in the world. I've been honoured to share at over 100 churches, schools, camps, writing conferences, and seminars, to be part of the preaching team of Capital City Church International (3Ci) and Reading Family Church, and to contribute to the work of UCB1 and UCB2. My Gallup StrengthsFinder top five strengths are Communicator, Positivity, Winning Others Over, Maximiser, and Belief; I'm a Myers-Briggs ENFJ and an Enneagram Three. I was born in 1977, and I identify as a perennial: flexible, and comfortable connecting an assortment of generational dots.

I am wife to Murray and mum to Cameron and Scott.

Education

I matriculated from Willowridge High School (Pretoria, South Africa) as Dux Scholar and Top Allrounder (academics, sports, culture) with six distinctions. I studied a Bachelor of Arts at the University of Pretoria (UP), majoring in English and French and graduating as Top English Student. I went on to read for my English Honours at UP, simultaneously completing a Higher Education Diploma (PGCE equivalent) through the University of South Africa (UNISA). I then read for a Master of Applied Languages (UP) and completed a Certificate of Graduate Studies in Spiritual Formation through Regent University (USA). I was awarded UK Qualified Teacher Status in March 2024.

Experience

As a student, I taught mathematics through Project Literacy's adult education programme. I was a Tutor and later a Junior Lecturer in the English Department at UP. After graduating, I worked as a Classroom Assistant in London, then launched my teaching career at Cornwall Hill College (Pretoria, SA) where I was an English teacher and Head of French for six years. I taught English at Dallam School (Cumbria, UK) for six months, before returning to South Africa and starting an editing and translation business. I was called back into teaching in 2006, heading up the English Department at St Alban's College (Pretoria, SA) for four years. I stepped back into the role of regular teacher in 2011 in favour of more time with my sons. Apart from teaching at St Alban's, I was involved in conference speaking, resource development, freelance editing, adjudication of public speaking events, marking for the UNISA English Department and English Oral Moderation for the Independent Examinations Board.

In 2013, I embarked on a new career season as a full-time writer and speaker.

Since moving to the UK in 2021, I have also taught English and mathematics part-time at Crosfields School, Langtree School, and Gillotts School.
